Cheryl,
Whatever happened to the nice times we used to know? Oh well hope you had a good year. I guess alot of problems got between us. I'm glad we could be in the same science

September comes earlier every year. While still in the midst of summertime activities, encounters, and boredoms, we are carefully coded and registered into Basic Oral Communications (sounds interesting), Introduction to Algebra, French I, Physiology, AP English, Anthropology, what's the difference? Everything's painful--not too tough at the moment...doesn't look like we'll survive this year's demands...tests on what I don't know (how can a mind be graded?) Oh well, everybody who wants to "be somebody" passes this way at some period in their life. The football game's Friday night (can't miss that) and then there's Homecoming, the Sadie, fall sports, Halloween, Thanksgiving...not so bad after all--maybe school spirit is a good thing...people getting excited over a simple game of football (simple?) by dressing up in the most unclassy attire, coming to school before first period (unheard of) to t.p. trees or paint a parking lot...but that's okay because it's the beginning of another level of my education and this is all quite beneficial to the enrichment of my otherwise somewhat nonstimulatable mind--must get involved, you know. Crisp autumn days...warm clothes...anxieties of skiing...plans for the future college exams...good intentions--reoccurrences of every other fall, yet fresh enough to motivate, and varied enough for almost anyone to find a place where that individual can feel secure--and confidently say, "This is where I belong..."

Crazy hats, clashy clothes, greasers, bobby socks, roller skates,--a newcomer to this exclusive community (all visitors must report to the main office) might think we've all gone nuts ...well, maybe we did but wasn't it terrif? The (pardon me) spirit of seventy-six reigned over that week we call Homecoming...assured to beat Cupertino, the optimism of Lynbrookers was remarkable and inspiring (maybe there's still hope for mankind). Nostalgia? Someday we'll be laughing at the short dresses, flared pants, and platform shoes we wore to school in the seventies. "Oh, that now could be like it was then," (Lynbrook '76) football games, fifties day, dances, the great people, the fun we had...skateboard contests, Volkswagen races,

Homecoming

Fonzies, Fonzettes, we saw it all and, to top it off, varsity football whipped the Pioneers 20-17...familiar, soon-forgotten personalities from the previous school year reappeared for that spectacular night--where we all witnessed the crowning of Barbara Baverstock as Homecoming Queen, and rooted on our princesses Renee Halstead, Shannon O'Day, Danielle Hooper, Dana O'Day...fireworks displays, reminded us of the 4th of July (maybe it is still summer and this is all a figment of my imagination)...the enthusiasm of players, students, parents, alumni, and anyone else who was there was evidence that high school isn't such a drag--bringing back a few memories, and yes, even some regrets...such was this year's...

An experience that can't be appreciated fully by those who weren't a part of it--the first days of try-outs, then came rehearsals that took priority over practically all else . . . memorizing lines (for those who had them), going over a song until it was impossible to go to sleep at night without dreaming about it, dances that challenged our gymnastic talents, the jokes that no one else could understand, the ups and the downs of being told what to do, Saturday rehearsals (no powder puff practice!) making costumes the night before dress rehearsals . . . and finally it came--we weren't sure we were ready, (what about D.N.?)

. . . Stagefright, relief, so much to treasure--tradition . . . (Corey, watch your step), fabulous performances by Morgan, Teresa, and Mike-they all did terrific . . . somehow, it all came together on opening night-but who can measure the value of getting to know people and the memories of two and a half months of hard work and great fun?

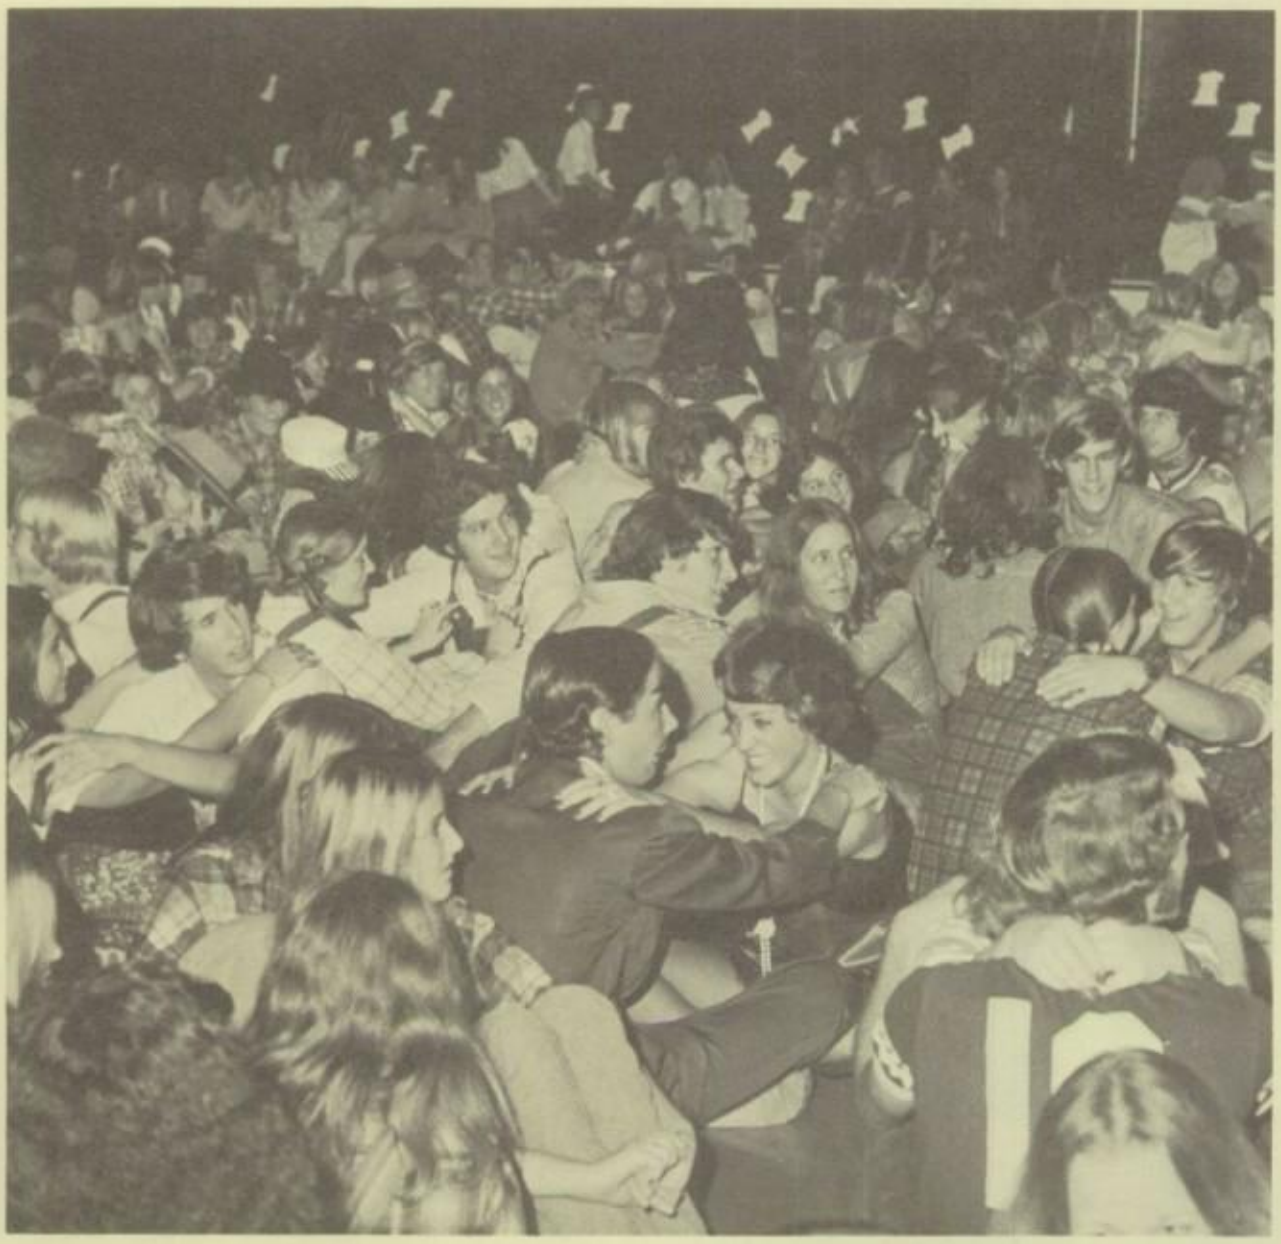
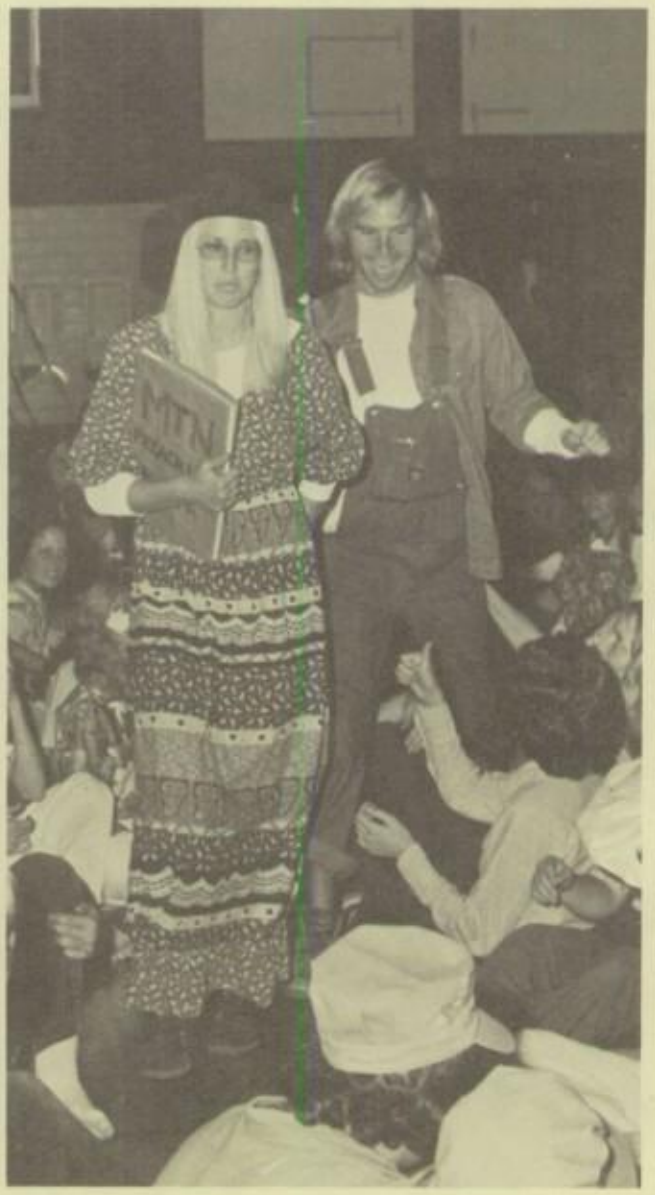
November fifteenth. Who to ask, what to say, no self-confidence, what to wear, where to go? Feels weird to take a guy to a dance where everyone looks cute or corny or anything...but that's okay because who cares if we go to a classy place for dinner dressed-up like we're going to a high school Sadie Hawkins dance? A girl's only opportunity to make it known to the world that she's capable of making arrangements, driving, and providing for an evening of fun





(totally aware that she is of the feminine nature and careful not to give Someone feelings of embarrassment, helplessness, or inferiority), Papa du Run Run, California girls, squares dancing, marriage vows, hog-catching, banjos, Marryin' Sam and Sal, wheel-barrow races, mister irrisistibles, dancing into the ain't-it-great-to-be-alive night...no complaints--times like these are the times you want to "Be True to Your School".....

The great Lynbrook football tradition took a different turn this year--winning. That's right, fans, we never give up and Varsity rose to the occasion by giving us thrills (those rallies for example) and victories won by a team that (actually) did excell in what they loved to play and what you loved to see: Football--the season began (as usual) with thoughts of "we're great in practice games but wait till league starts"--and (surprise) when league did start Lynbrook kept on winning (as in scoring more points than your opponents; as in almost being league champs) ... winning the Homecoming game (no, it wasn't the first time although it seemed like it) ... lots of team spirit (Randy knows some terrific

Jay Vees made their own contribution and those excitable Frosh became (are you ready?) league champions--another great Lynbrook football tradition may be starting (let's hope so) but whatever, football '75 was (at last, at last): WINNING.

(Question: How does a football game between the Senior and Junior girls hit you? Answer: Pretty hard if you're down there on the field.) Yes, for the Seniors it was a day to go "fish" (right, Jim?) with all those Juniors standing on the sidelines as we "rally round the flags, girls" (and rip them off): The game began on an unexpected note with the Seniors getting a TD on the third play (we were expecting it on the first), and then running away with the ball (and the game) but there was more (who can forget those)--night practices (with no lights--run a post--into that tree over there), scraped knees (I still have bruises), let's try second go (second go, ok? second go, ok?), diving catches (time to inspect the soil content of the field), great hands (and, how nice, they're connected to a pretty terrific body too), plus (Dear Junior Pam, You owe me 85 Zemis. Your Senior pal, Nancy)...and with coaches like Jim (you fox you) Forthoffer for the Seniors who brought four plays and did a fantastic job, and Steve Hohl for the Juniors who brought 200 (I mean, 20) plays and showed his football expertise, our game was really catching (and passing and running and blocking) but especially hard work, pride, talent, and togetherness...so the Juniors wait till next year and the Seniors really showed their stuff--and yes, Lynbrook, we're ready to tackle anything....

Anxious pangs of wonder and hope even though everyone feels the same way--it seems like every race is THE most important...sound of the gun ignites the nervous tingling in shoes of mixed emotions--just so we all understand that we must do our best and don't let that heartbeat get the best of my energy and determination to come out on top in the end...down the green to the country club, (Kevin's place), poison oak...the friction creating a burning desire to win--over another crest and one more mile to go (can't let my pace up)...momentum, last bend, tension, victory... we finished second best in this year's...

Cross Country

Practice comes early as the weather gets colder and of course swimming starts (think about it) and GAA girls go diving into the water: sharing the pool with water polo--the disadvantages (swimming into each other) and advantages (how about that guy at the other end of the pool?)...but through it all (cold bodies, no towels and two picture sittings) the team and coach Botello (your hat was a true inspiration to us all) emerged once again from the season (and pool) with a winning record for seniors/juniors and frosh/soph (and very nice relationships) that made everything worthwhile--even green hair ...

Follow the bouncing ball was what we did best, and best, for us, was appropriate: peering through the fence it is 3:00--people biking off (take me along?)--but we are still here swinging away for those perfect shots that feel so good (I'd like to take them home and frame them) and that win so many points--like volleys off the wood?--if it scores, we'll take it...Jan's last year as THE player (breaking up is hard to do), how to escape from scorekeeping (take that racket cover off your head), match tension...the shared pressure to overcome it with Wilsons, Spaldings and Bancrofts (our rackets not the line-up), and our resident pro Mrs. Seltz showing us how...BJK would be proud...

The unstoppable Cees (check the gym, they're still in there) again came away as league champions --this time with Fremont--(but who's Fremont kidding anyway, huh, men?) faking, leaping, pivoting, and blocking (and you should see them in basketball games if you think that's good) the Cees had high-power scoring (Mike S. is at it again) and a defense that remained obstinate in the face of drives and jump-shots (that they never let get off the ground)...those fun (always fun) practices that made the season possible (rah, team)...not to mention coach Dossa and the skill of those very talented Cee's...

It was one of "those" years for the Dees (we just got an unfair amount of bad calls, right?) but regardless of records the team went out to play and gave it their all--and that's (the) all that matters ...picking and screening and passing off (no, not out) to hit the open man (to hit the open basket) ...and the Dee team was off and running (and running) with Coach Holtorf (actually he sat on the sidelines but he was very involved) to win some games (who counts?) and even enjoy themselves--and that makes one of "those" years a success...go sink some, guys...

With fall there comes that certain message in the air (smog alerts) and hockey women come out to hide behind their skirts: that special sport you never forget playing (particularly if you bruise easily or have an aversion to pain). Epic--"a long narrative poem written in dignified, majestic style"--sounds like the quality of the Lynbrook Epic (modest), and of course, we had the staff to do it (equally modest)...working together for story ideas--"do you know anything I could write about?" arranging interviews--"but I'll need a pass to get out of math," and making sure all stories are in before deadline--"when does late copy go down?" Then there's paste-up day, the perfume, like essence of rubber cement, hovering over room 21...and 20, and 22, and...the editors diligently working to get their pages pasted down (never could figure out why on paste-up day, we end up pasting down), and trying to think of creative ways to fill those nasty little blank spaces which appear twenty times too often. And finally, who can forget the Fridays (probably everyone), the hands grabbing away at the dwindling piles of our distinguished (how gauche) paper, and how we sat around looking at the staff box (alias, brag box) to make sure our names were spelled right--what egotists. But that's what it's all about, right Ms. G?

Bundled-up bodies shuffle past in the rally court and nobody knows who they brush by because all are late for class and must go to locker to get books...dreary mornings create an atmosphere of the school blues, yet we all look forward to Christmas vacation and snow and all of those wonderful things that make winter bearable and even exciting for many...hot chocolate scalds the not-quite-awake first period numbness and it seems like the second quarter might not be so long after all, so let's get all we can into the remainder of '75 and start '76 with good intentions...Christmas ball, concerts, basketball, wrestling, modern dance, soccer,

Things have really changed since 6th grade at Dilworth. Doing was really different, or at least I had fun. I hope to see you more next year in some of my classes. And history what a bore. Just think two more years to go. Have a great summer, and good luck in the future

This year was a real drag in Holdens class, but is over now and we all survived. We live on the same street and we see each about once a year oh well thats the way it goes Have a great summer and see ya later Bob Schofield (77)

mistletoe, candy canes, long absentee lists, (gee, how come he got a sunburned nose when he was at home sick in bed?), drippy rain gutters, fogged-up glasses, wet feet, (yes, the times when there's nothing better to do than work on that report that's due next Friday), cafeteria packed at lunch, pre-spring anxieties, the true meaning of Christmas...every year the same --but winter's great because it makes us appreciate the sun and brings back memories, ideas, and calories that we all love and couldn't live without...

A night of "Silver Bells" (but accompanied by a band) with dancing (etc. etc.) in the cove, and so Lynbrook has a Ball (Christmas, that is): Our very own Queen with Princesses to match (but only till midnight--sounds kinda familiar, huh?) with girls in formals and guys in tuxs (yes, that's why they take pictures--it could be the last time you see each other this way) added to the excitement of dancing, Christmas (and you?)--and can't you just hear those bells ringing? We screen for the team, pass for the class, and do a nice pick 'n roll (we're available for party bookings--especially at the gym) and other (we know them by heart) basketball dictums (for reference see Coach Dossa, et al.) which means only one thing (we watch the Globetrotters after Saturday morning cartoons?)--of course, it's Boys Basketball: Ten free throws in a row or run (we just like the exercise), sharing the gym with the girls (about time), thinking only about the game the game the game (what else is there to think about, Dos?) with three on twos, two on else is there to think about, Dos?) with three on twos, two on threes, and even more exciting, one on twos, two on ones (tune in tomorrow for your next lesson in the new math), working to win the game the game the game by working on ourselves to make the shots fall (in the basket's always a nice place to start), the passes accurate, and the defense tight . . . and, as usual, Lynbrook's teams do the work . . . for all those games games games (is it all right to stop now, coach?)

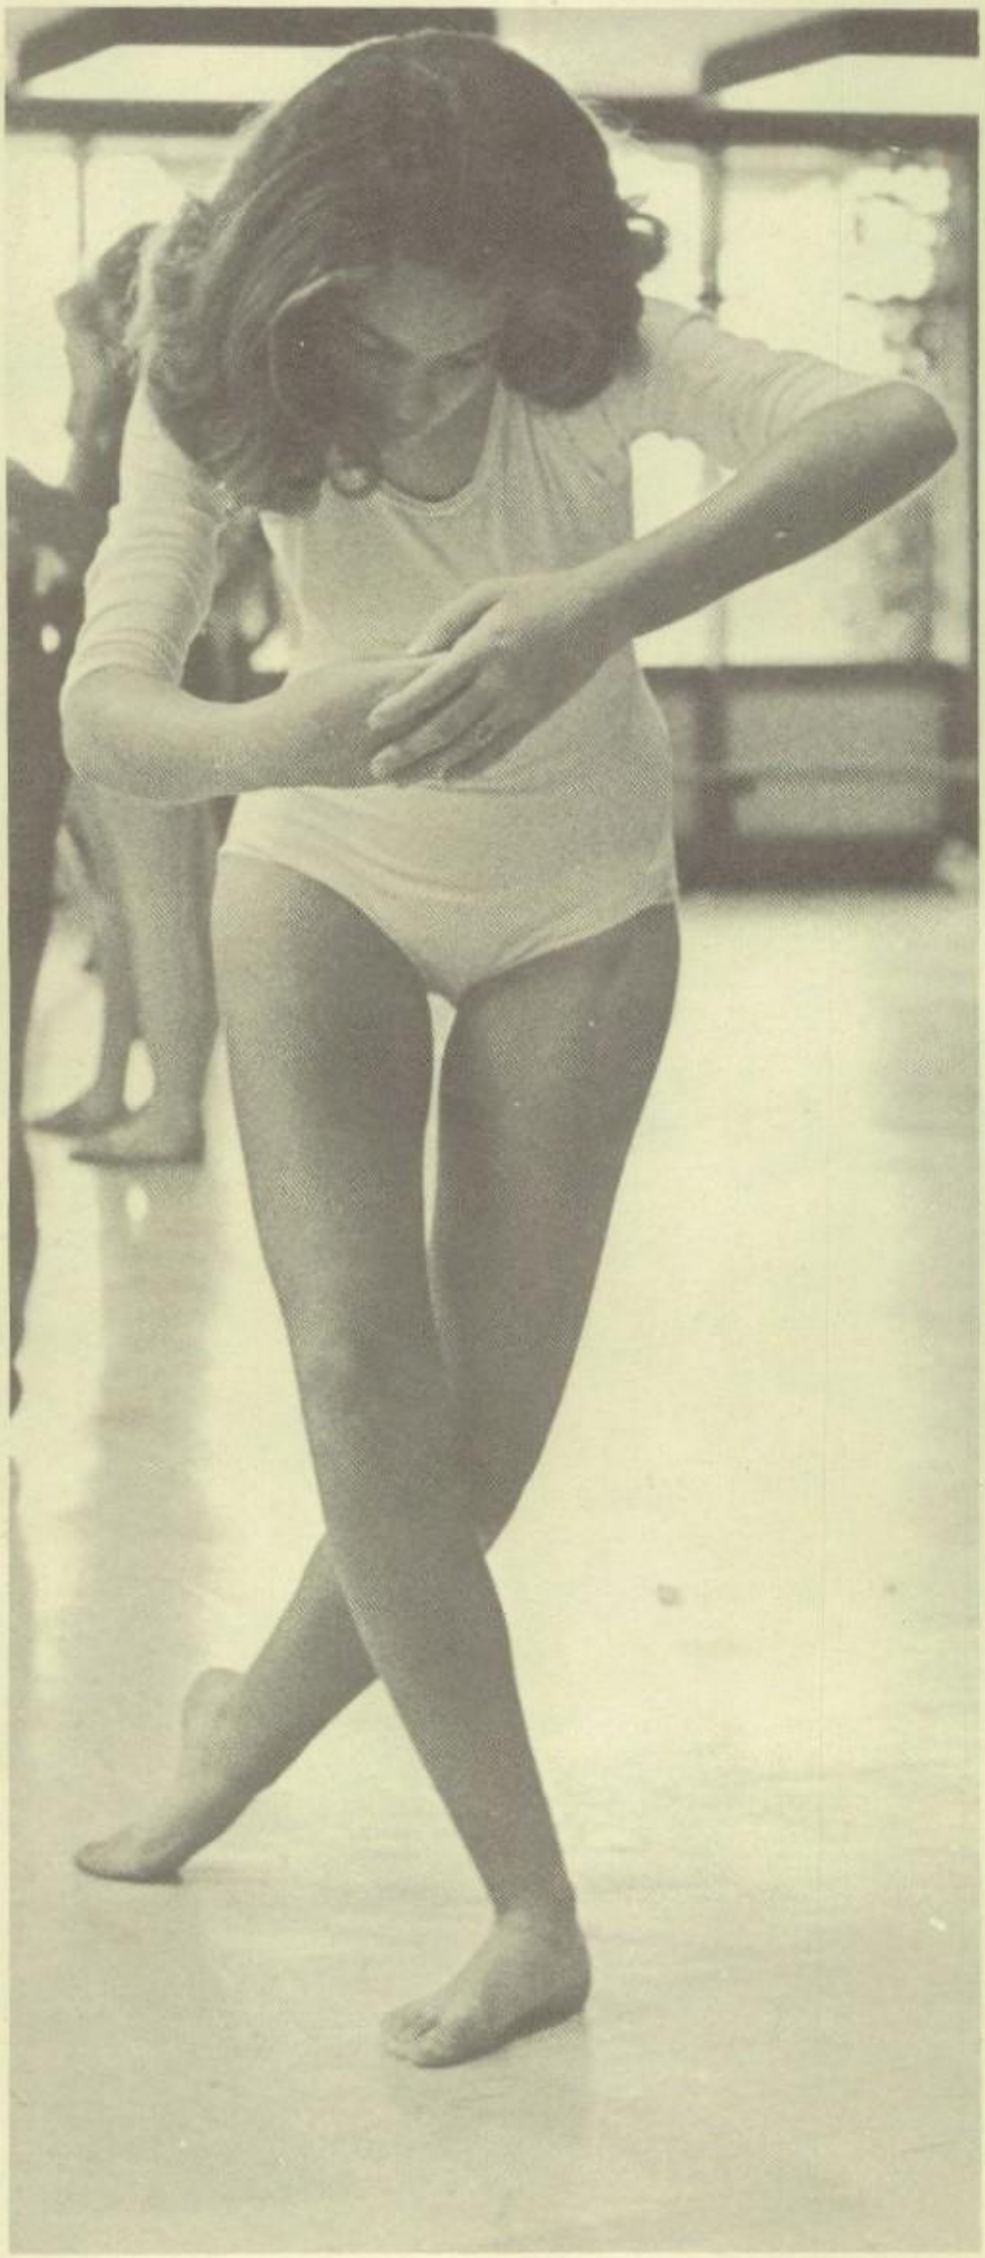
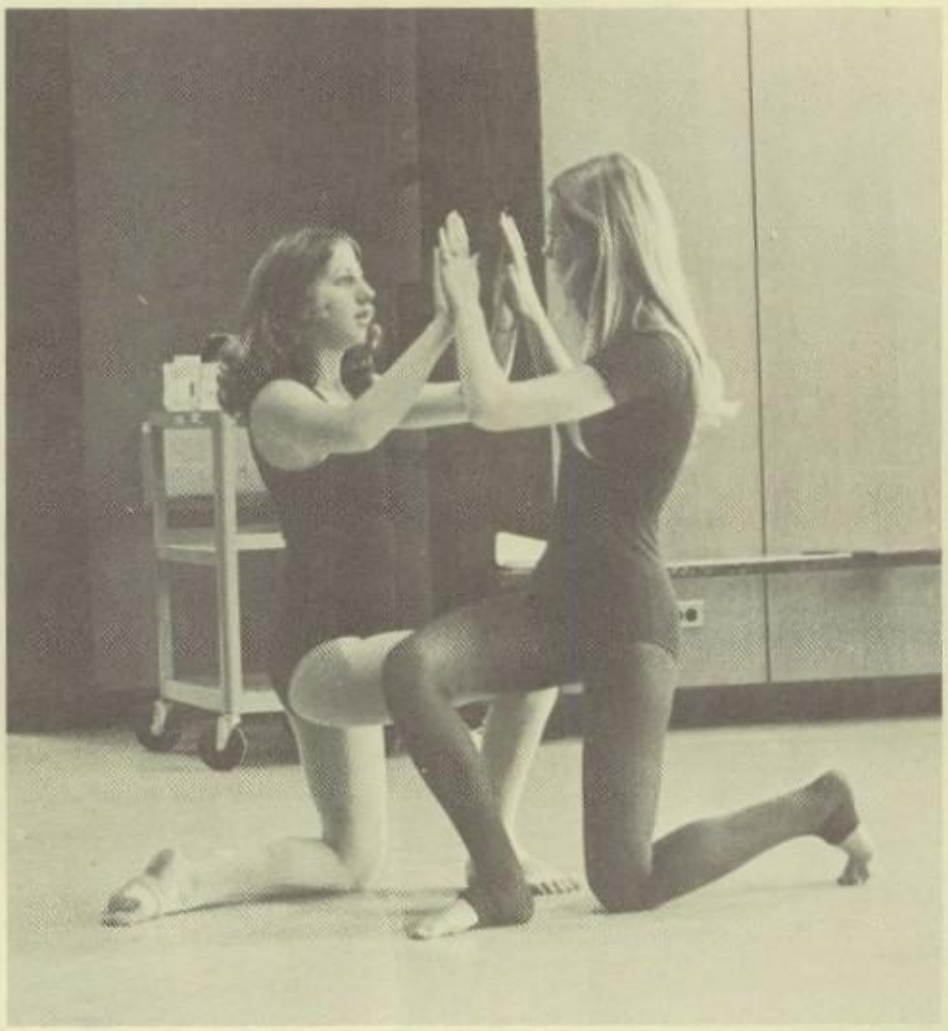
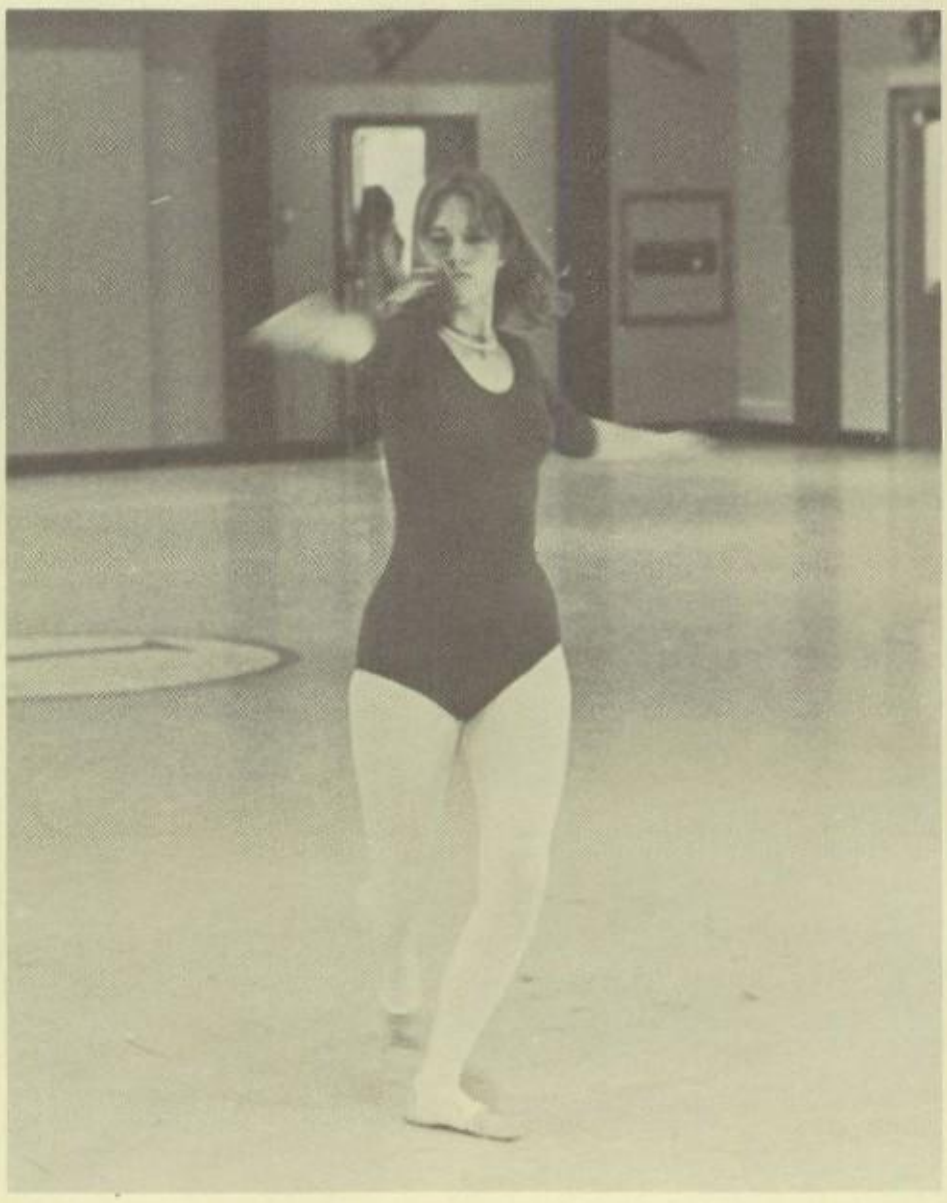
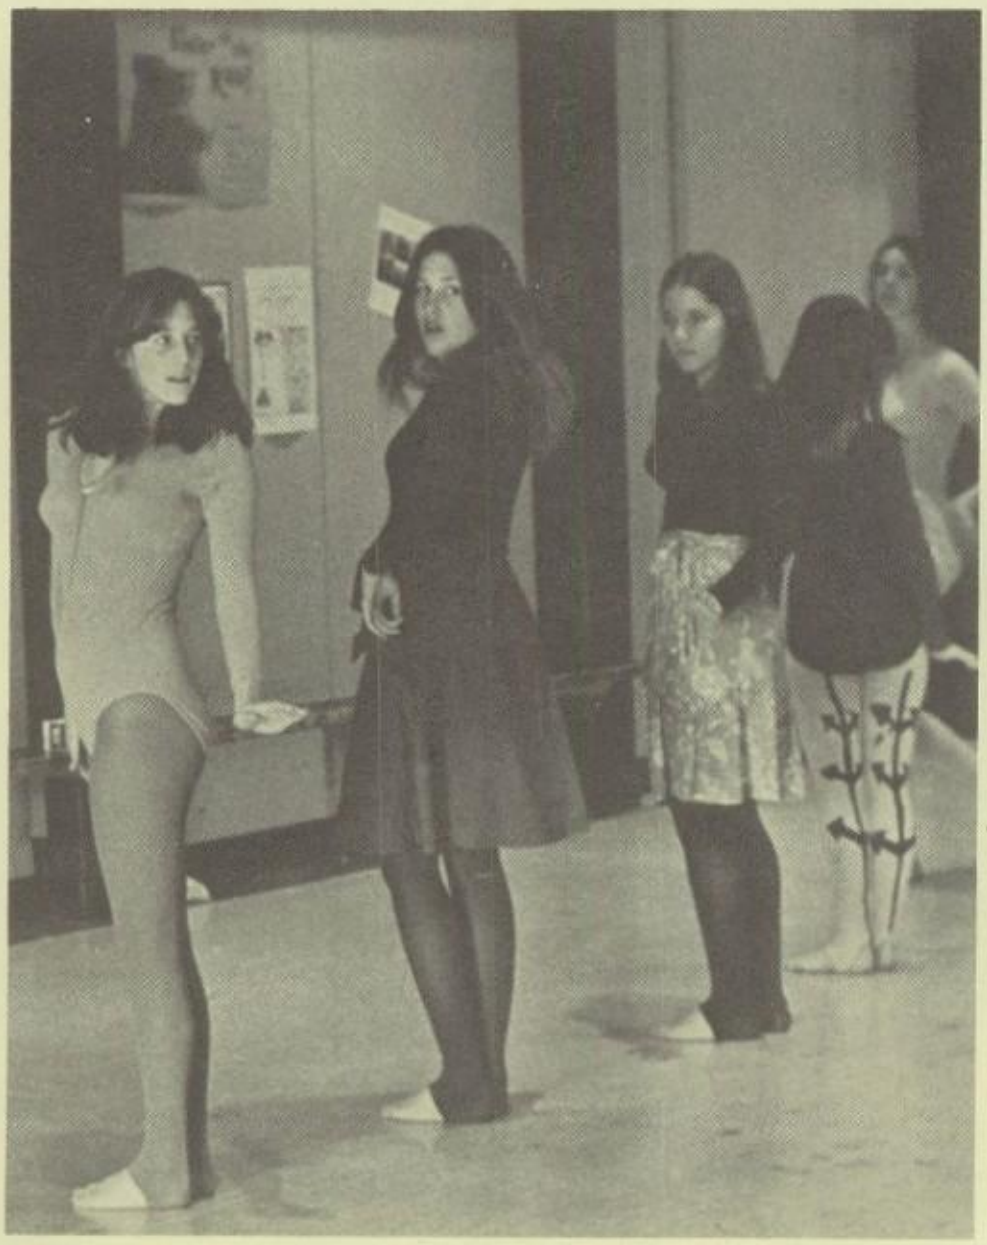
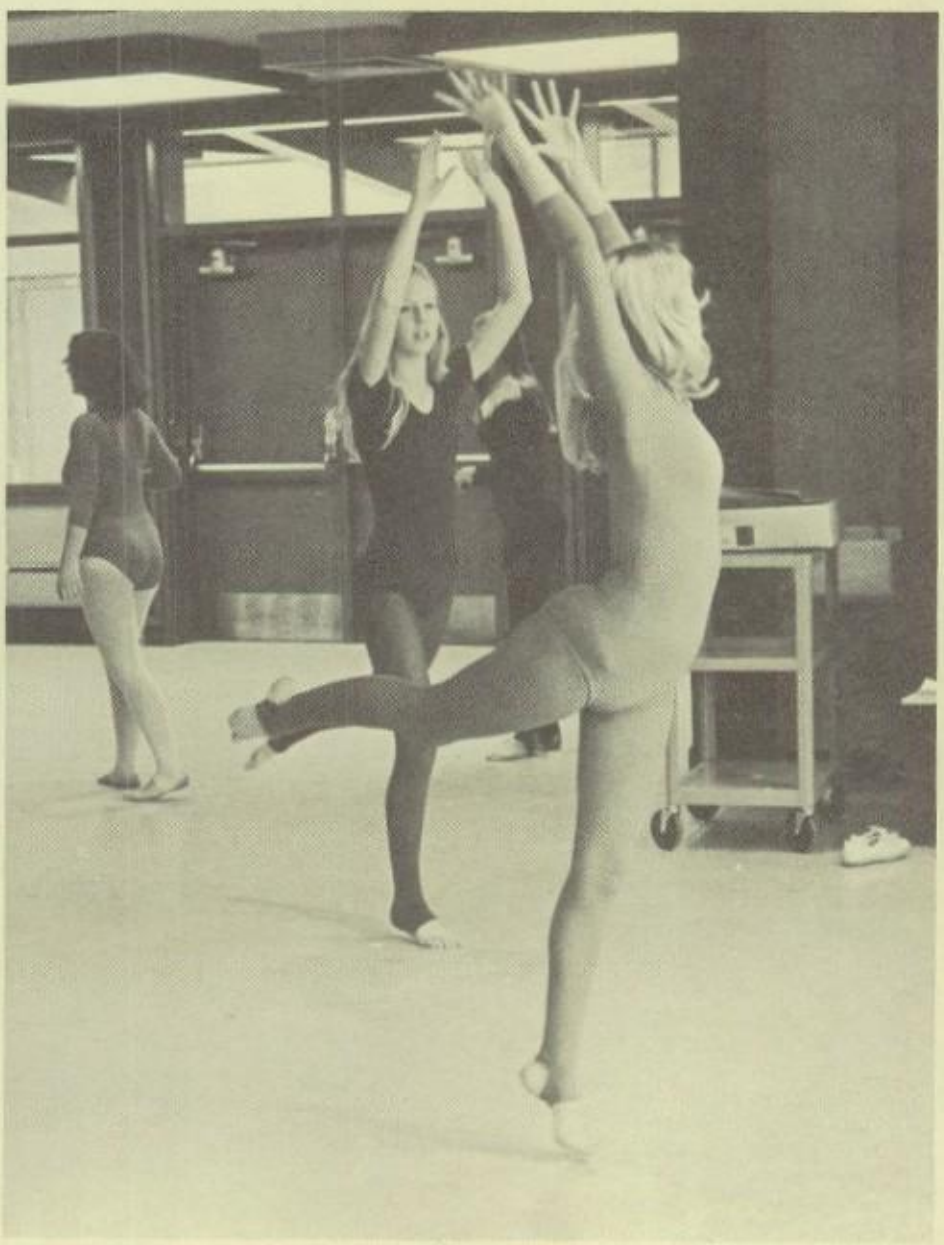
Modern Dance











That different sport where 135 pound guys have to lose weight, and 175 pound guys have to gain it... and if that makes sense to you let's go grab some boys and throw them to the ground--that is if you're a wrestler (sorry, girls): running a circuit (throwing a football?), doing pull-ups (and a lot of hang-downs), too many hours in the weight room (once is enough but we keep going anyway, coach), growing vines (from me to you), and when building a

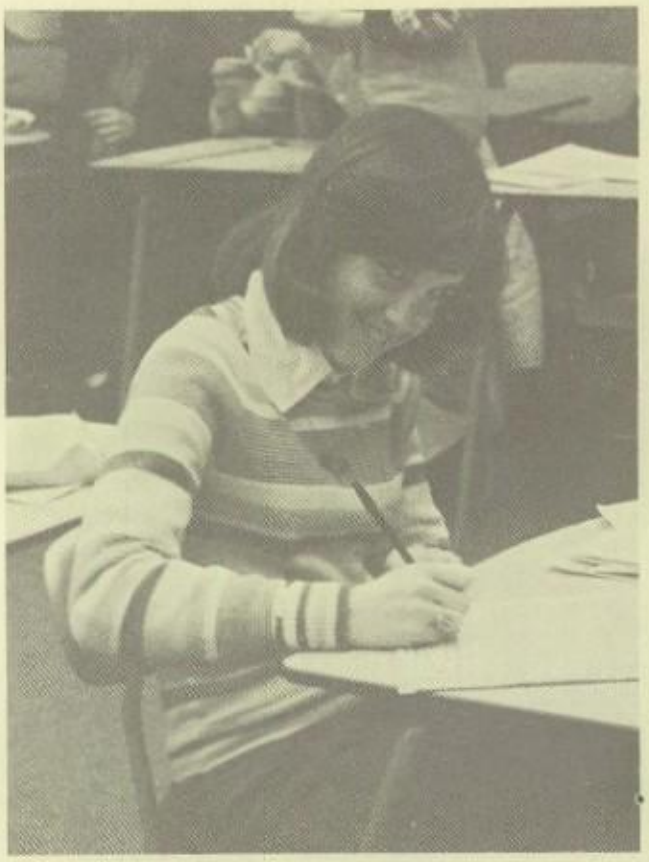
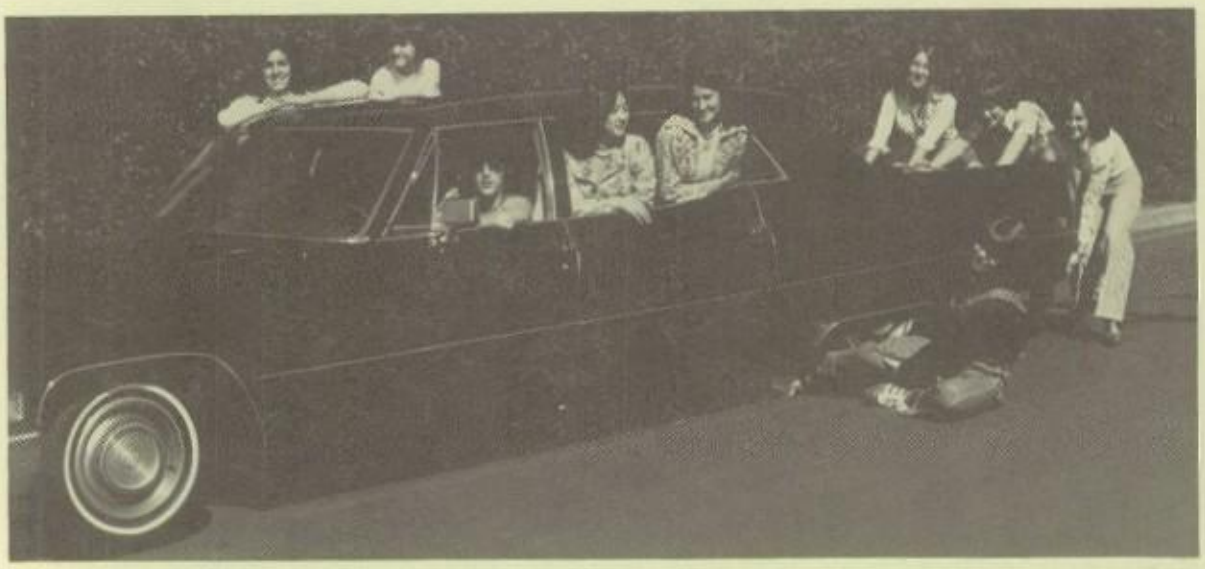
Not enough money to put out a full color book but then football affects more of the student body, huh? Well, we did our best, amidst the anguish of public (and private) relations, lost pictures, an accumulation of left handed 3R's, and Greeley's quaint suggestions...SWEEP! Corpse Grinders--what a movie! Made 100 bucks (was it worth it?).. Where's our photographer? Deadline days in the resource center until 7:00 on Halloween too many faces not enough space (or vice versa) and why wasn't GAA taken? Forgive us for the misproportioned misplaced mutilated missing and misspelled--for we are yet slightly human... (how does one take pictures of a non-existant softball team?)..Spring sprung after the deadline (maybe no one will notice the winter coats and snow-capped mountains) while the yearbook staff's swift plans for a Tahitian trip and tear-along-dotted-line diplomas never happened (like the Christmas party) Dress-ups on the freeway (Marty, how suave you look) and the latest news on the lunchtime scene..the highly intellectual political debates (did you get accepted, Nancy?)--can't copy last year's book (although no one would probably notice)..we had our reasons for the cover (look up "Valhalla" in your Funk and Wagnall)--patience endurance optimism dedication--that's us alright...always calm and ON TIME we reconstructed what we saw and heard--and who can argue with such truth?





Cheryl, It's been nice knowing ya this year. Hope to see ya next year. Phone me this summer. Sharon Brindupp 459-9398

Senior Hootenanny

Well the spring semester sprung (?) and so did A.S.B. government right into business.....teacher evaluation was a biggie (at least ABC and the rest of the nation thought)....there was the blood drive in June (no Marty, they don't use a vacuum)....lunchtime concerts (dedicated to those people who spent lunch watching the cement grow) and let's not forget the controversial issue of supplying Mrs. Sieler with a much needed (and I might add, well deserved) paper cutter. After a long semester, that final 7:45 a.m. meeting rolled around (Mark's last stand?)....wow, what a party we had...

Pick up your bat, dust off your glove because spring's in the air (and so is boy's baseball): step up to the plate (but never on it) as we lead off with a strong pitching staff this year (again) following up with a solid defense and (what an) explosive offense...the team had aggressiveness ability strategy (a water fountain) all on the field at once--all of which make the game (our game) winning (not to mention wetter) --so shine up your cleats and position your cap because we're ready for nine innings of anything (as everything we've got)...

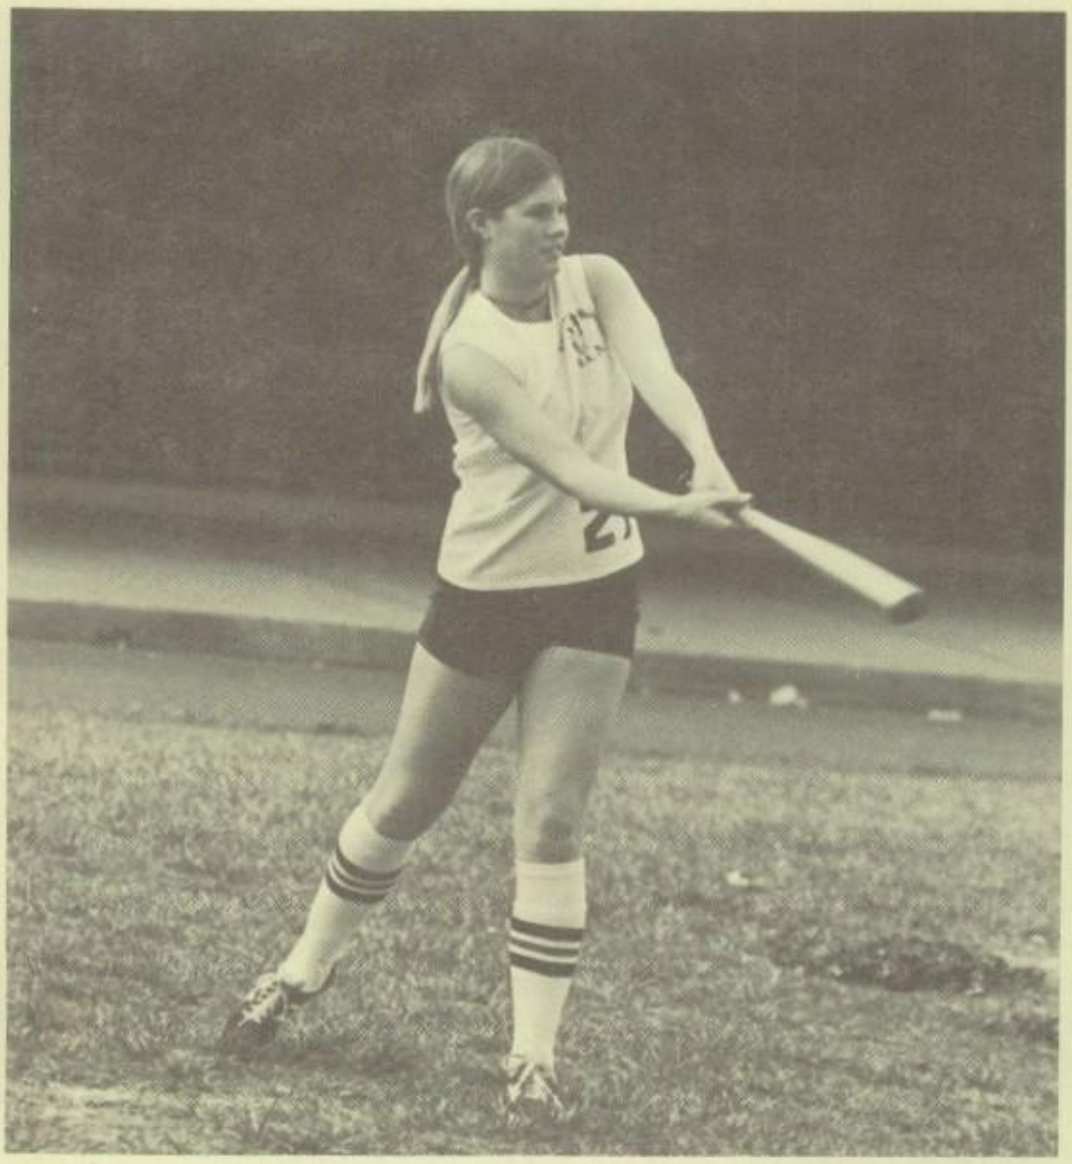
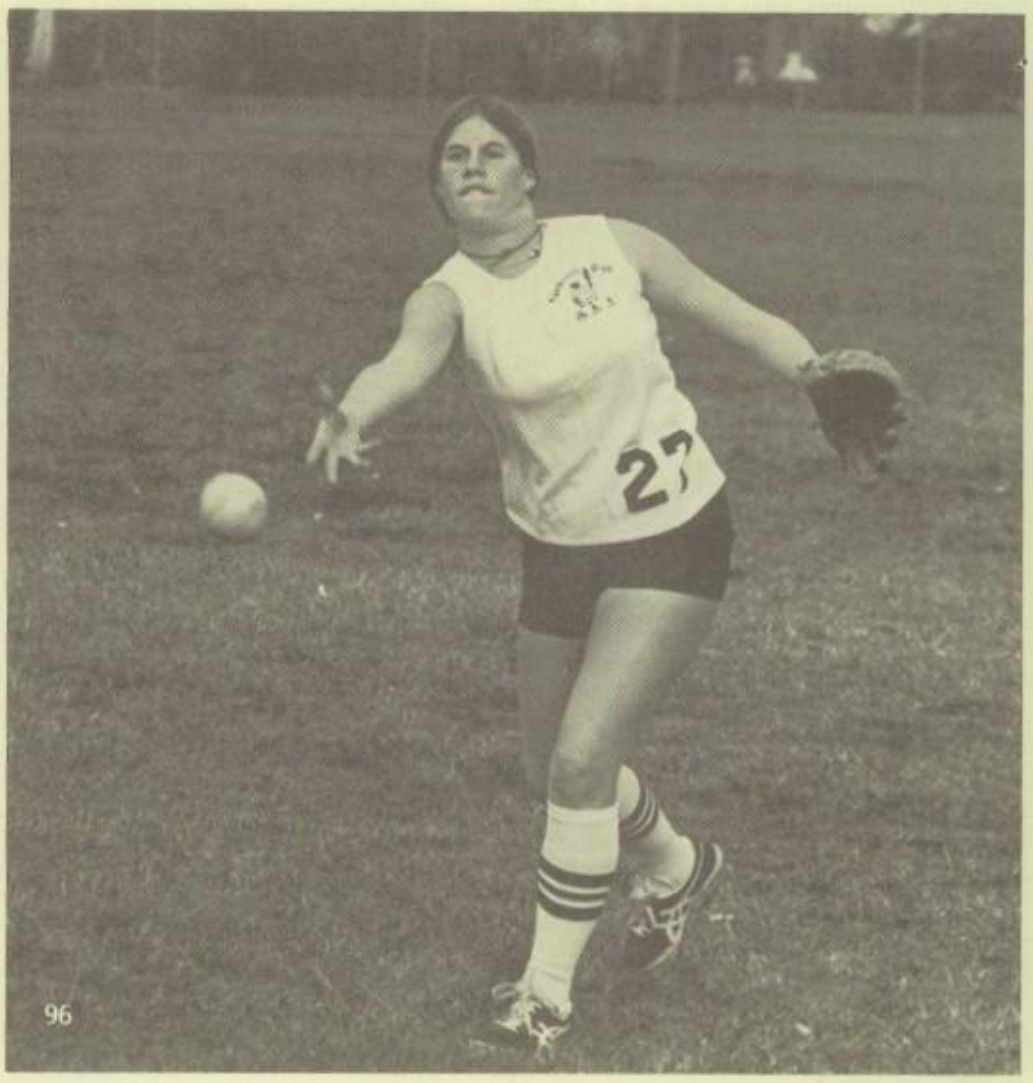
The way to end a season is with one that begins with softball--hot practice in the summer sun (come work on your tan) on a field on a diamond where nine interlocking (hold tight) players work to take their place take their base (it's mine) and you got it, take their game: bang out the base hit, tag the runner (you're it--not to mention out), pitches over the backstop (good eye), balls lost in the sun (bad eye), signs (you mean that's the hit and run instead of the take?)..with every player an umpire (of course) at bat, on deck, in the field, upon the bases..and being Lynbrook, going for the one we want...

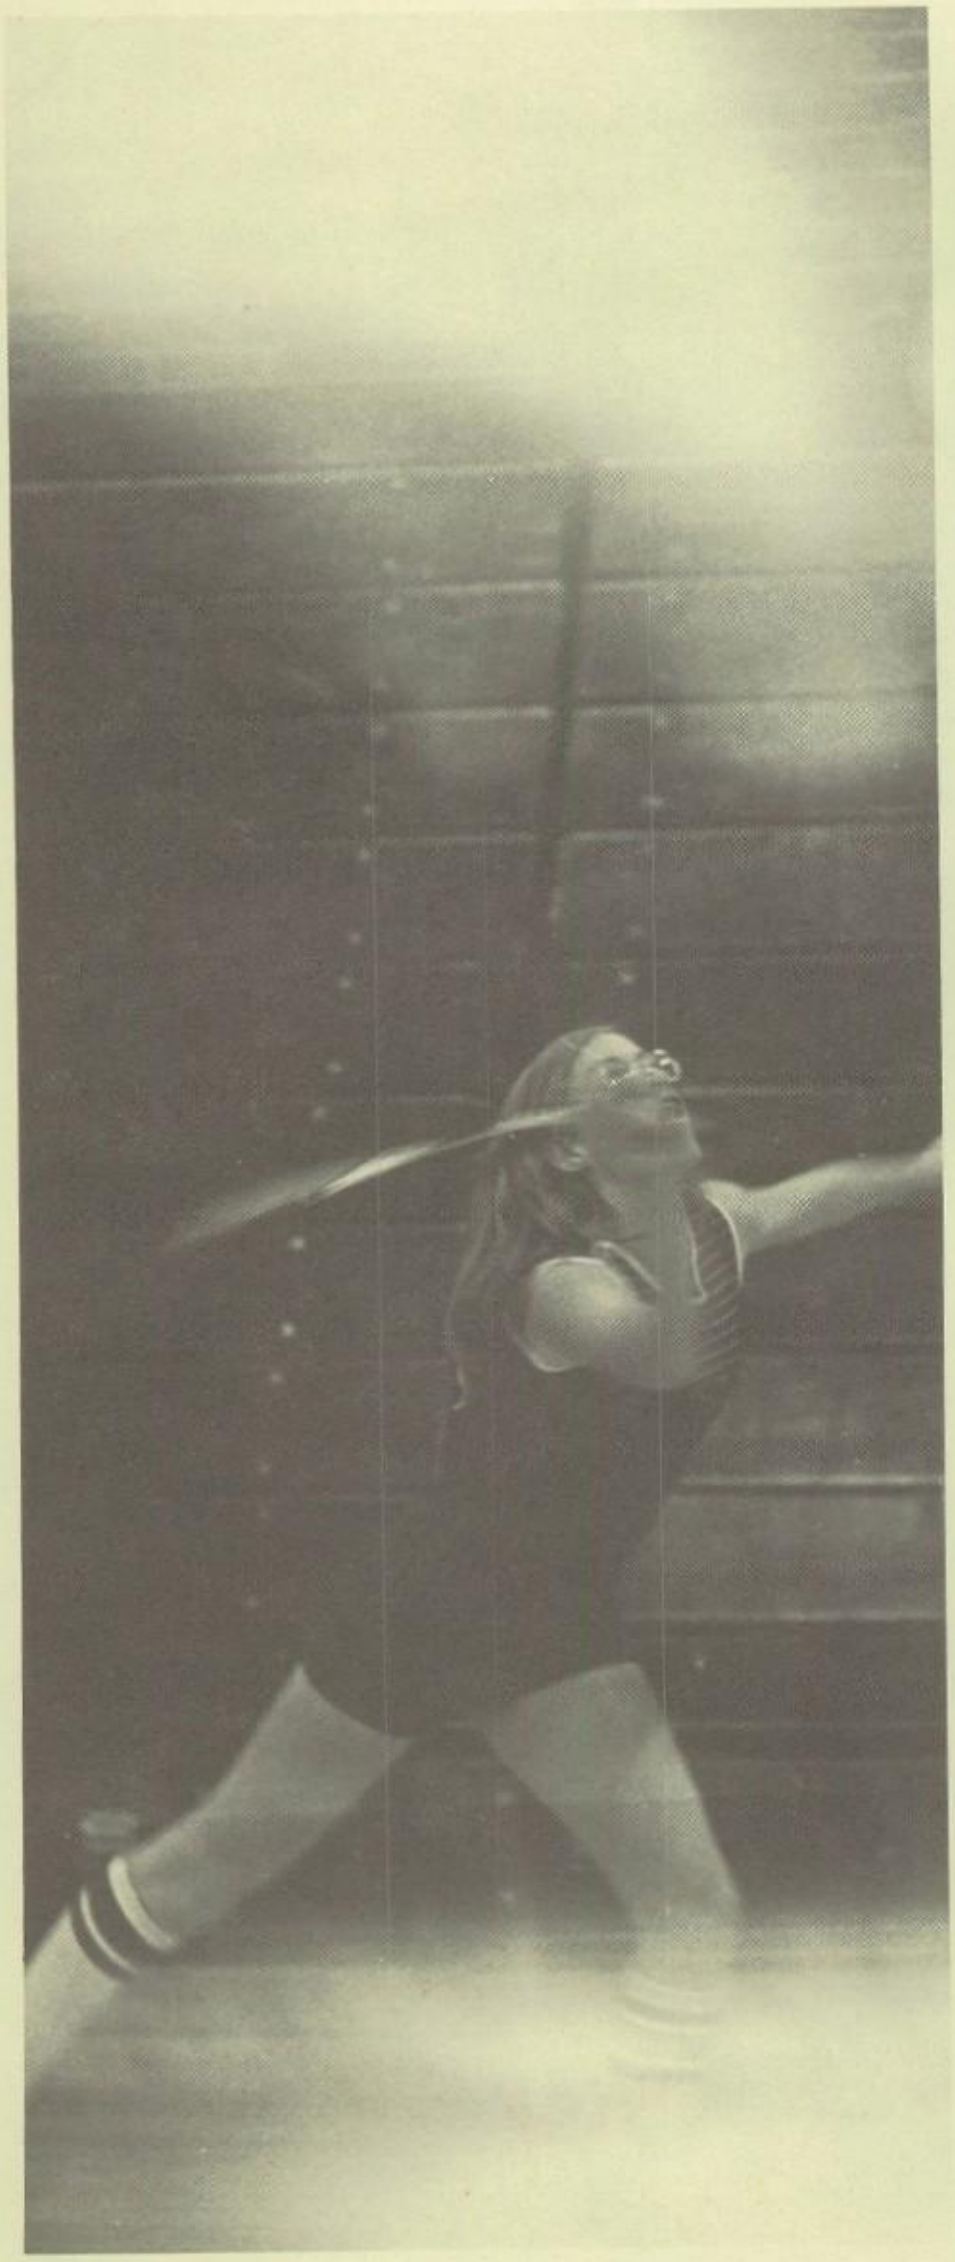
Softball

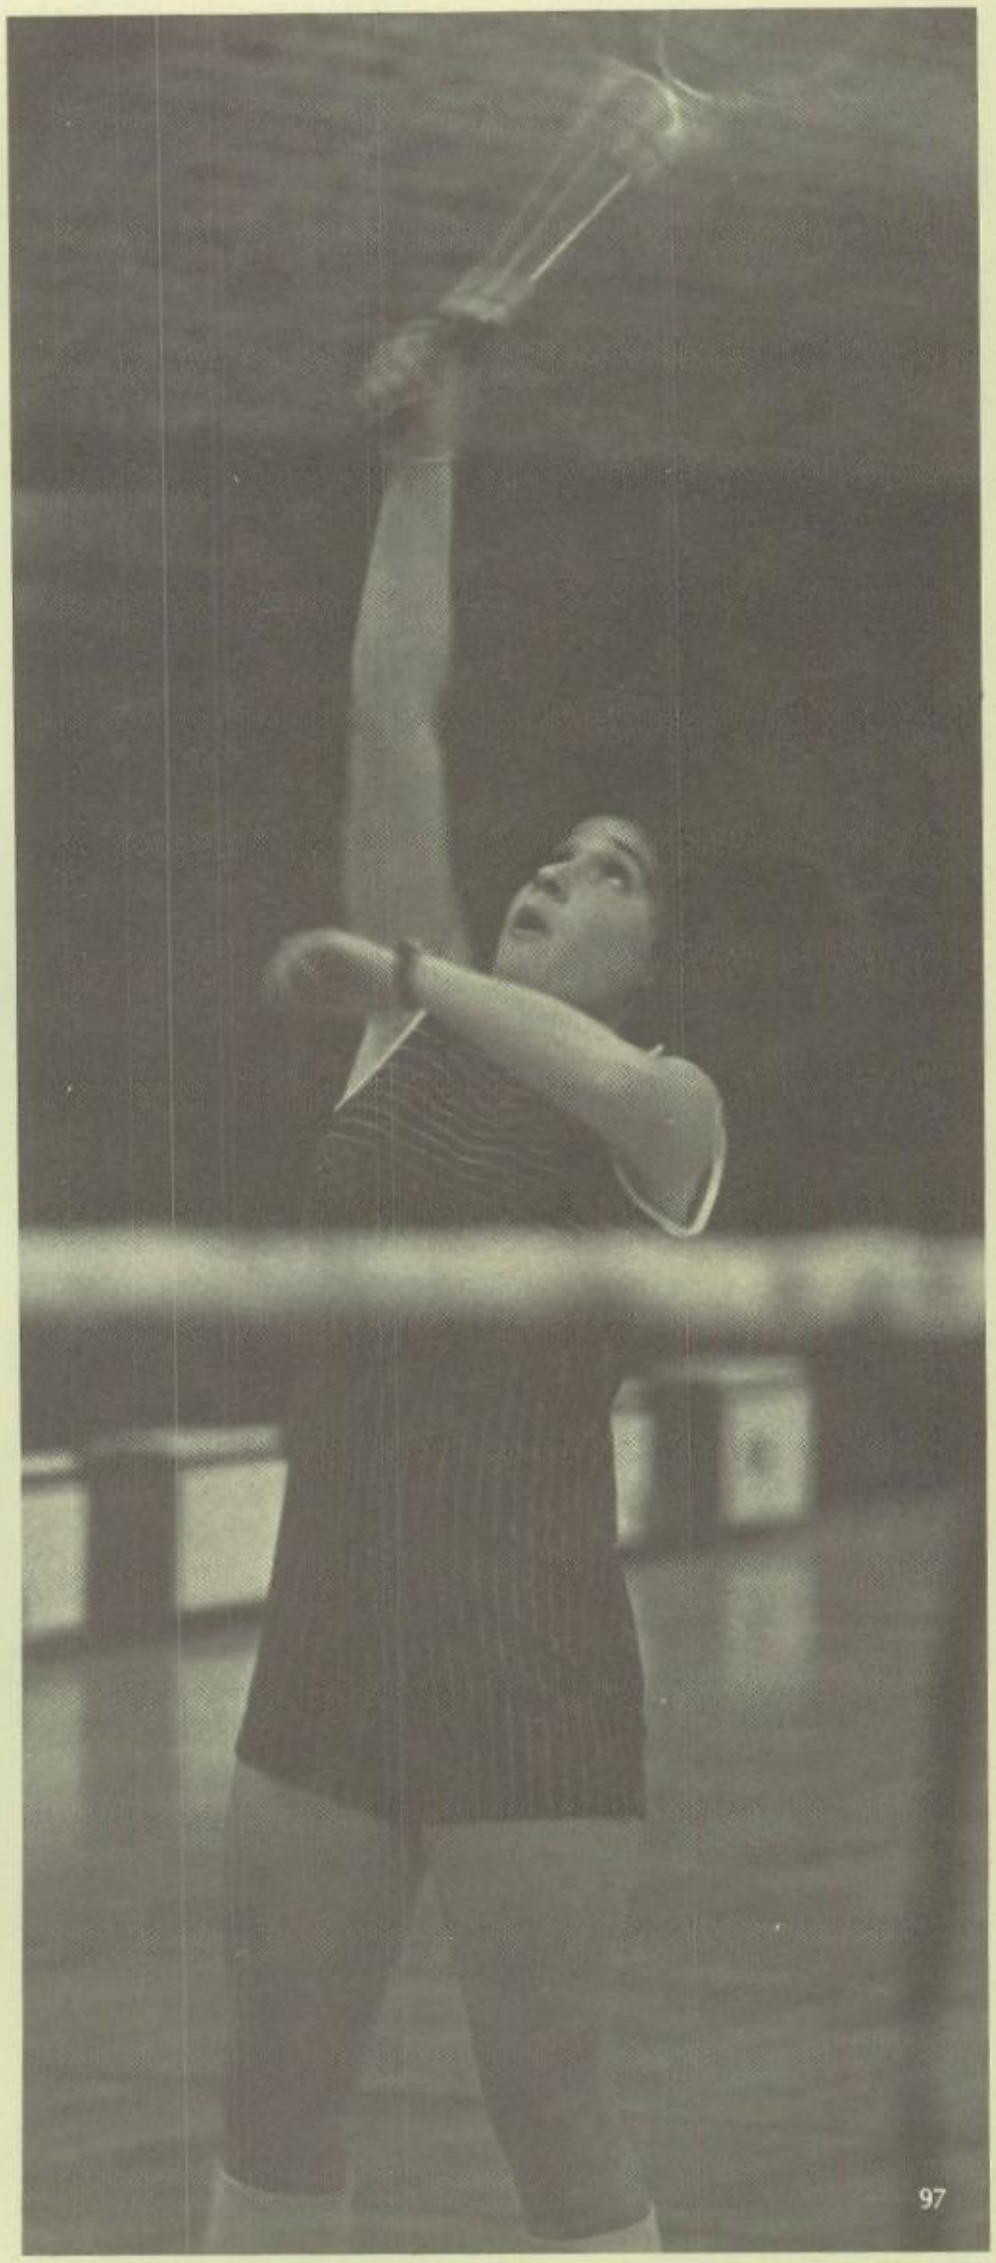




Not quite the most popular sport--badminton nevertheless (and neverthemore) manages to hang in there (but off the net) with smashes, serves, strategy and eyes trained on the shuttlecock (our own birdie watchers??)...you need quick reflexes, a good feel (for your racquet, kids) and determination to win (even on slanted floors, huh, Bot?)...so do what you like (badminton for instance) and keep swinging at it, team...

Badminton





Thats right, we still have a golf team...guided by coach Keith Crawford, the small six man squad that included Scott Cass, Mark Kliedon, Dave Freel, Scott Ware, John Clark, and Jim Holliday had a good year even with losing the top five golfers to graduation last year...they birdied, eagled, parred, and yes, even bogied holes on the course...yet whatever the score on the last hole the golf team always came back swinging better and putting more accurately...

Volleyball

With court strategy firmly in mind (and in hand), Lynbrook's very own netters aimed their serves and angled their volleys for..(you guessed it)..tennis: the team lost some talented seniors last year (keep looking for them they're bound to turn up) but this year's seniors (and juniors and sophomores, etc.) were a handful (a racquetful?) of talent that promised to make up for any loss in personnel... which makes Lynbrook tennis, in competition and play, outright winners (down the line and even crosscourt)...

Dear Cherie,
You have a good time!
Now, hear? All to soon you'll be old like me! I guess I'm not really old but like the 10 years that separate us a lot of water has flowed under my bridge. Not complaining, you understand cause we had good times.
I hope you have as much fun as this ol' boy did. Anyway, I'm always going full steam ahead and you can always ask me whats happening around the band. Well, I love you a lot and your my cousin, friend, sister and good Buddy so don't forget me. I don't think you will. Bye.
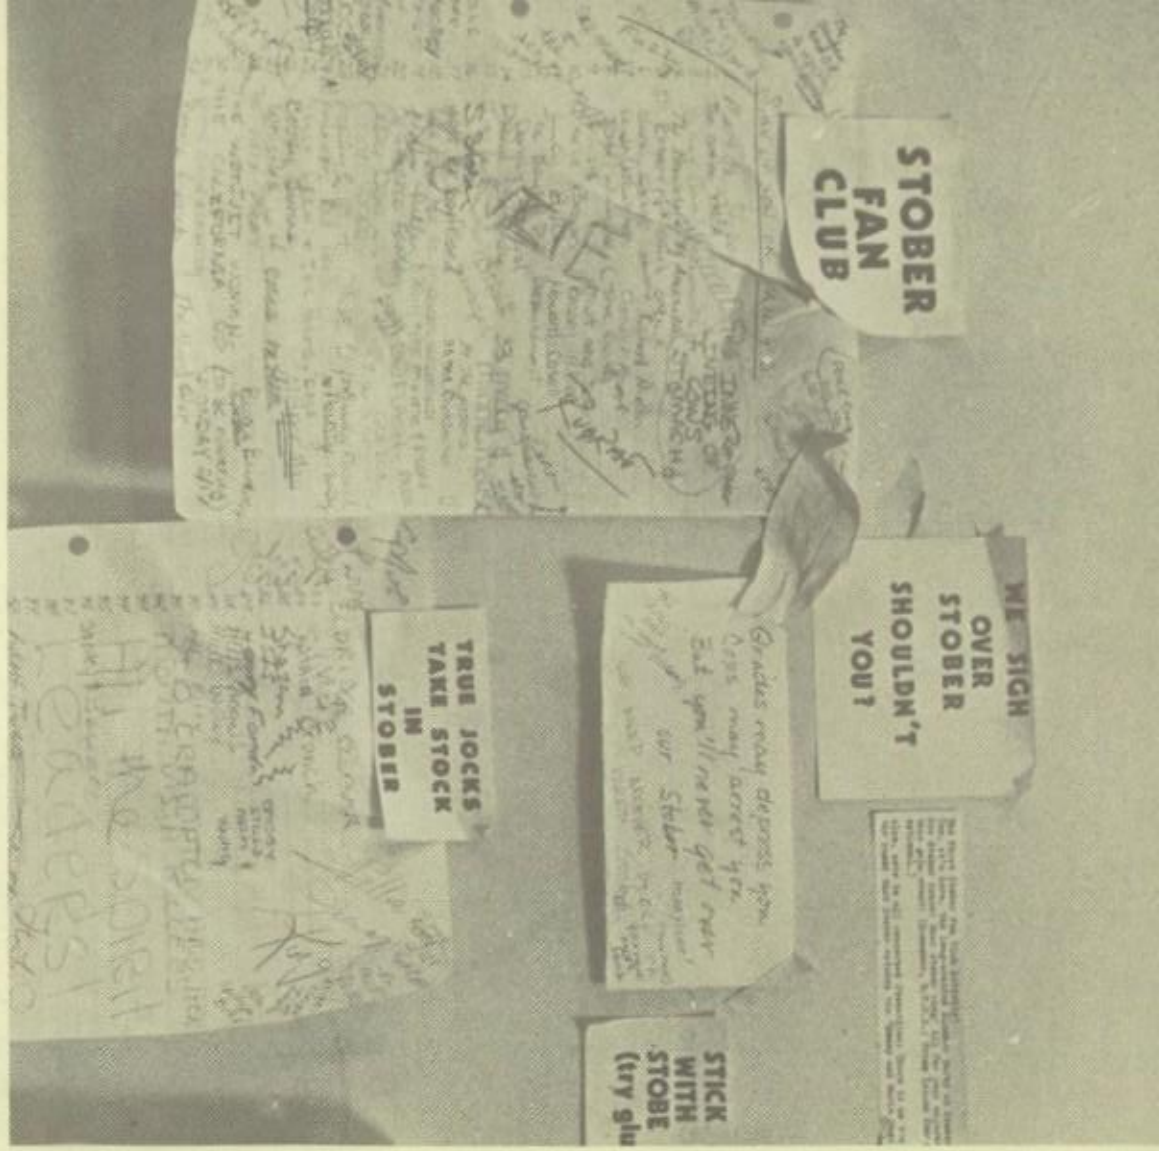
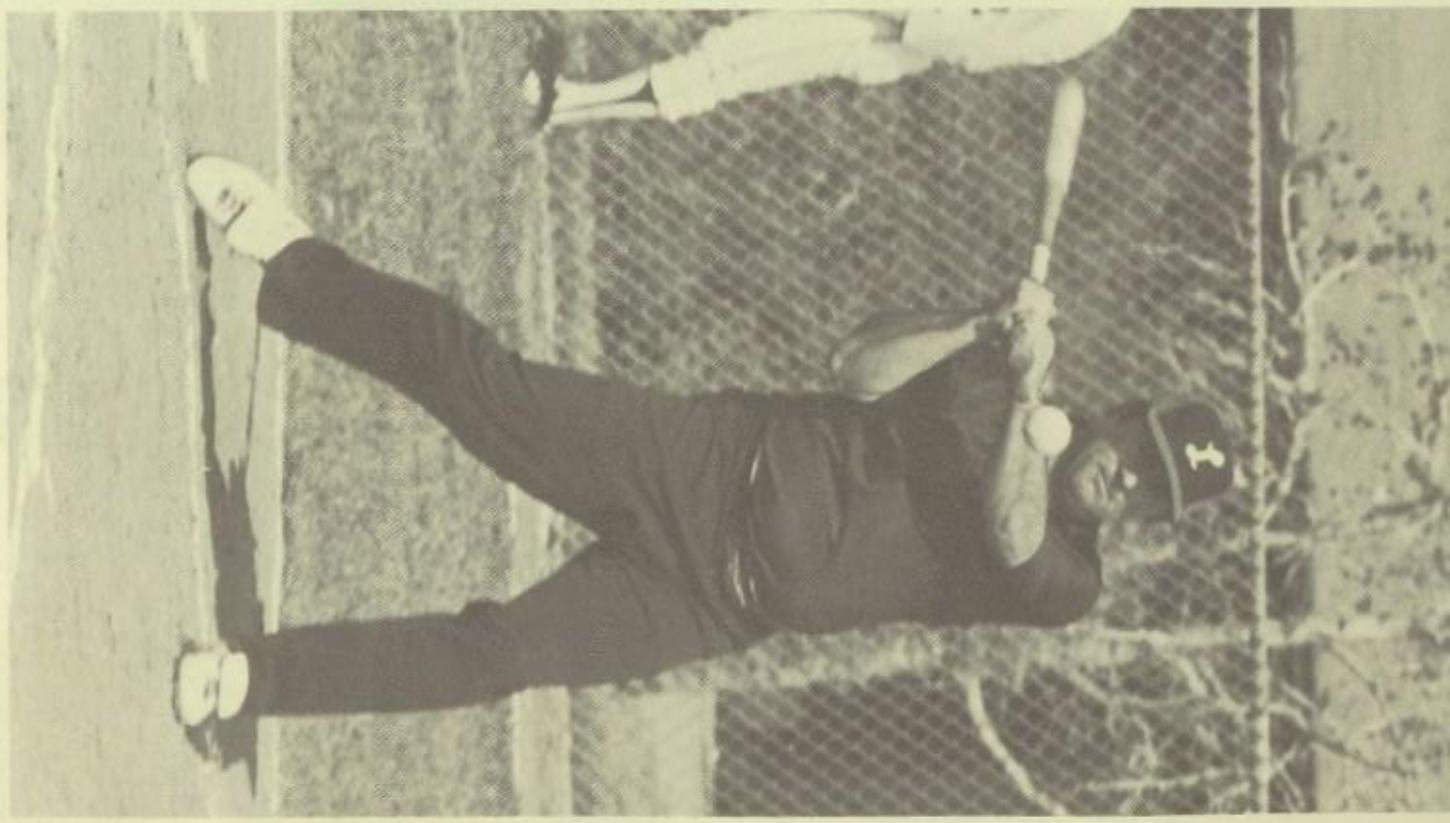
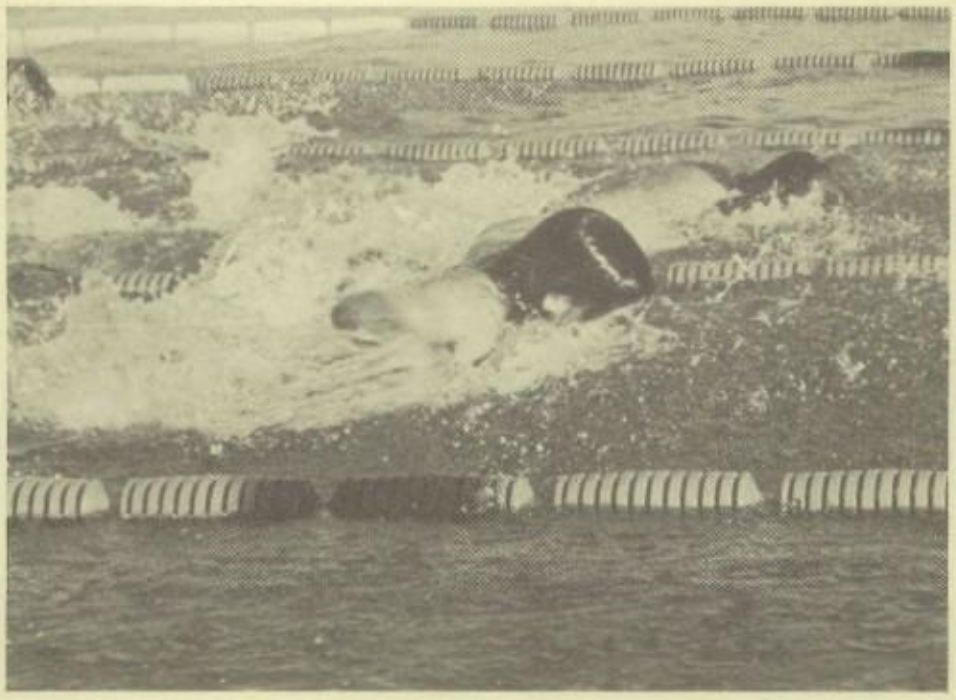
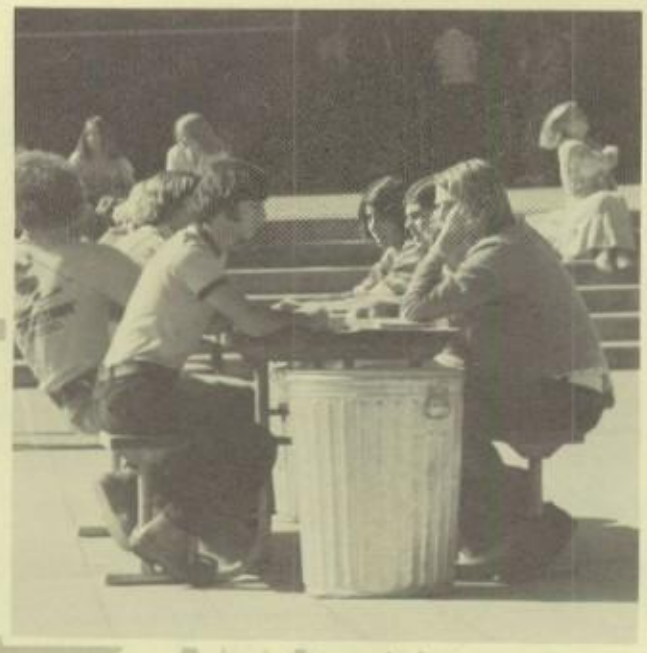
Love, Rand
P.S. Youre real neat!









No matter how you package it, there's no way to put four years of laughter, pain, and love into a few simple sentences (put away the pencils, kids, for there's no thesis statement for life)--we share a menagerie of images; people (who we touched and were touched by), and emotions that ranged from ecstatic happiness to painful dejection--full of the bitter and the sweet as we are--as life is--that every once in awhile come together to tell us that we cared, still care, and will continue to care about students, teachers, etc. and regardless how unsophisticated it sounds (thank you e.e. cummings): how you and I are blossoming...

UNDERCLASS

Registration, "get involved", everything that counts is here right now--driver's training, riding the bus, life's fulfillment is being a senior, pre-tests, post-tests, evaluations, --not bold enough to confront authority-or maybe wise enough to keep quiet..exploring the world through research papers and demonstration speeches--growing more independent from mom and dad each year, but more dependent on girlfriend or boyfriend..Love the freedom, but still bound by teachers and tardies (how come seniors never get caught?). Alas, what would come of Lynbrook without those of you persons identified as underclass (Lower class--or try IN class.. pretty classy, huh?) who give us over-classed persons a superior status?

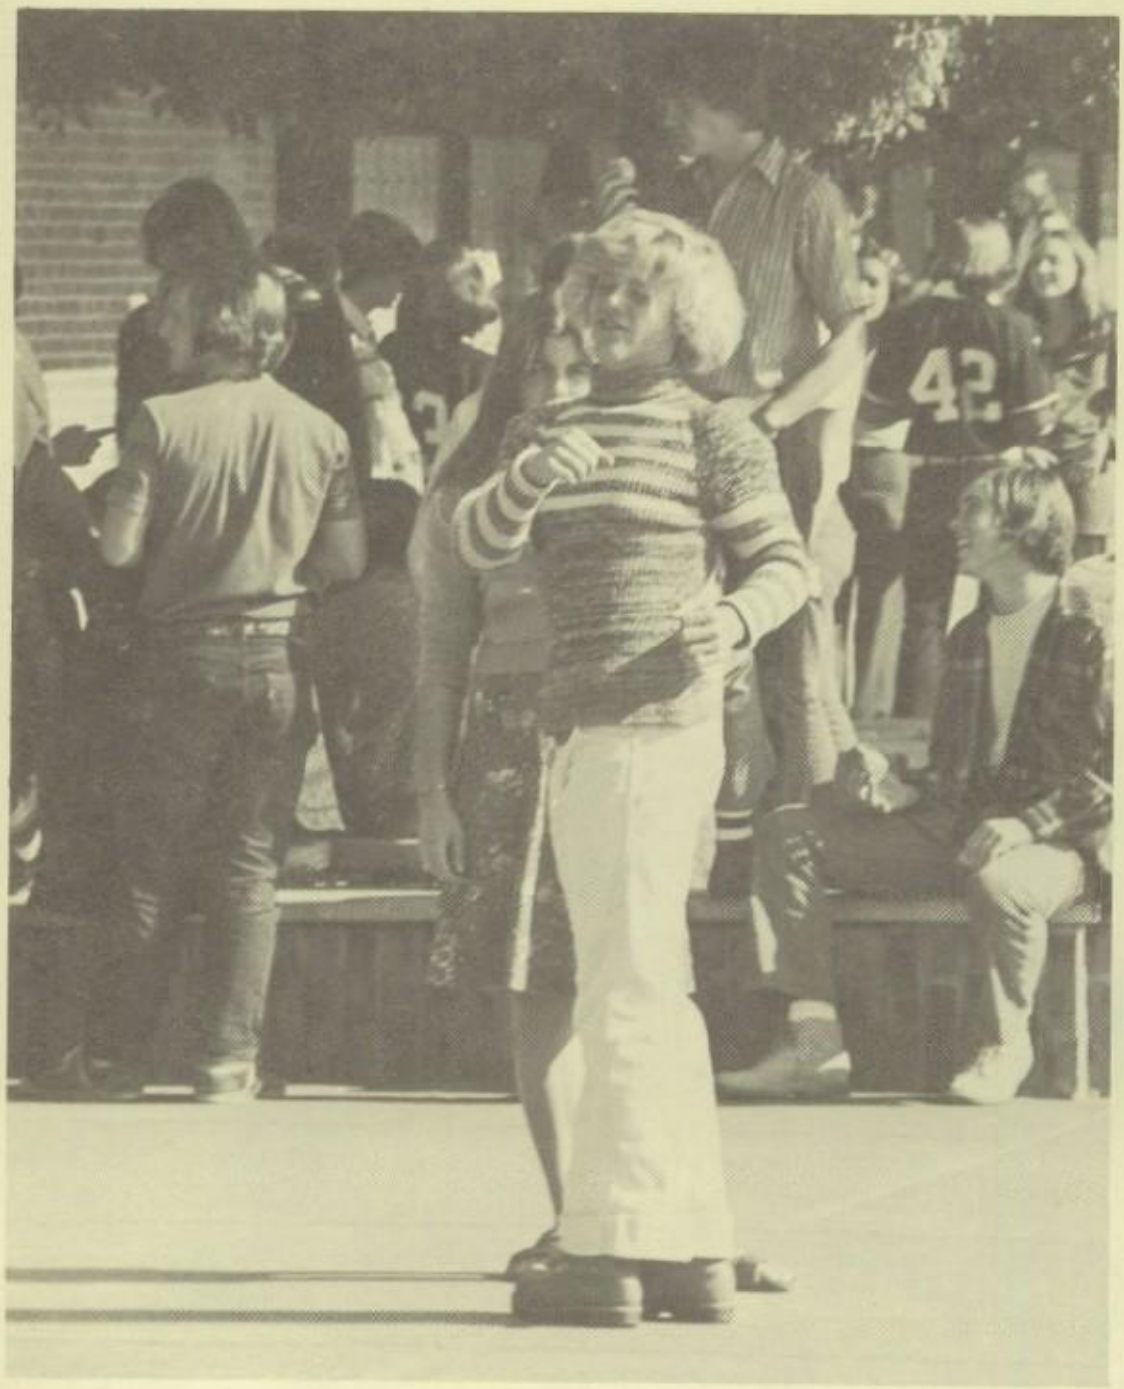
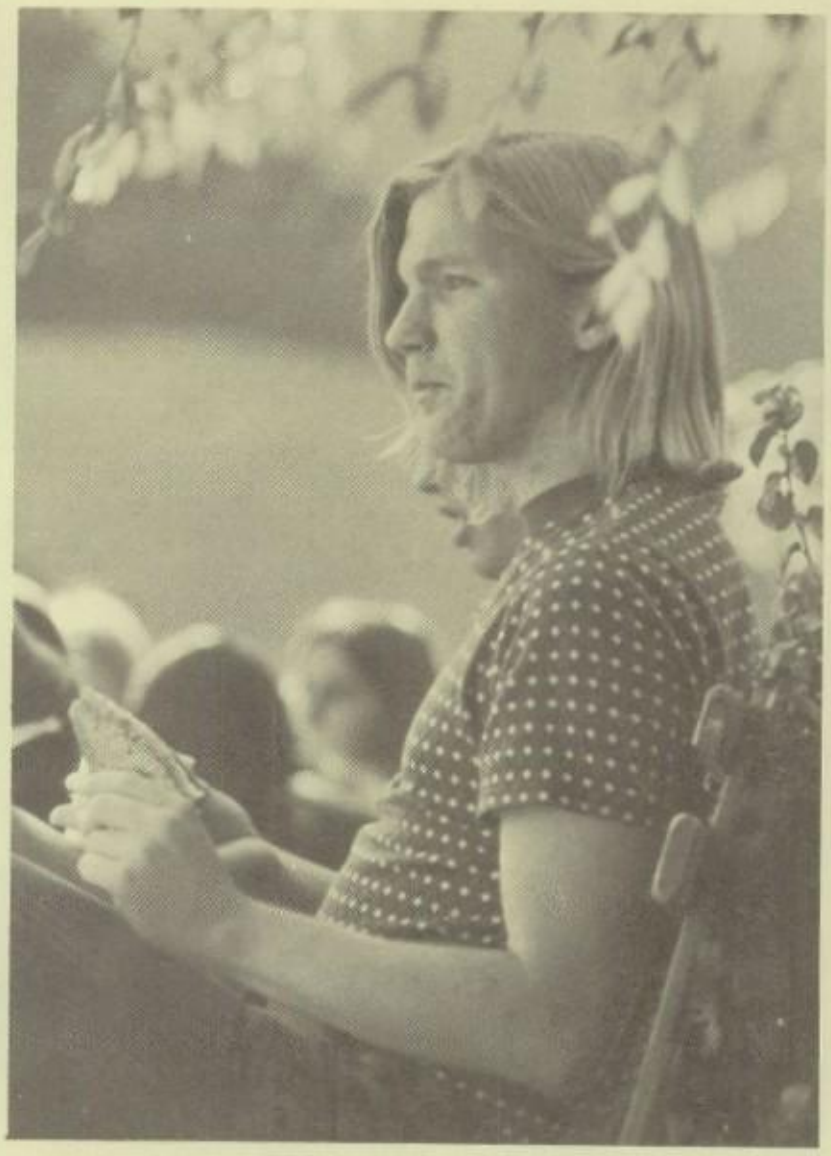
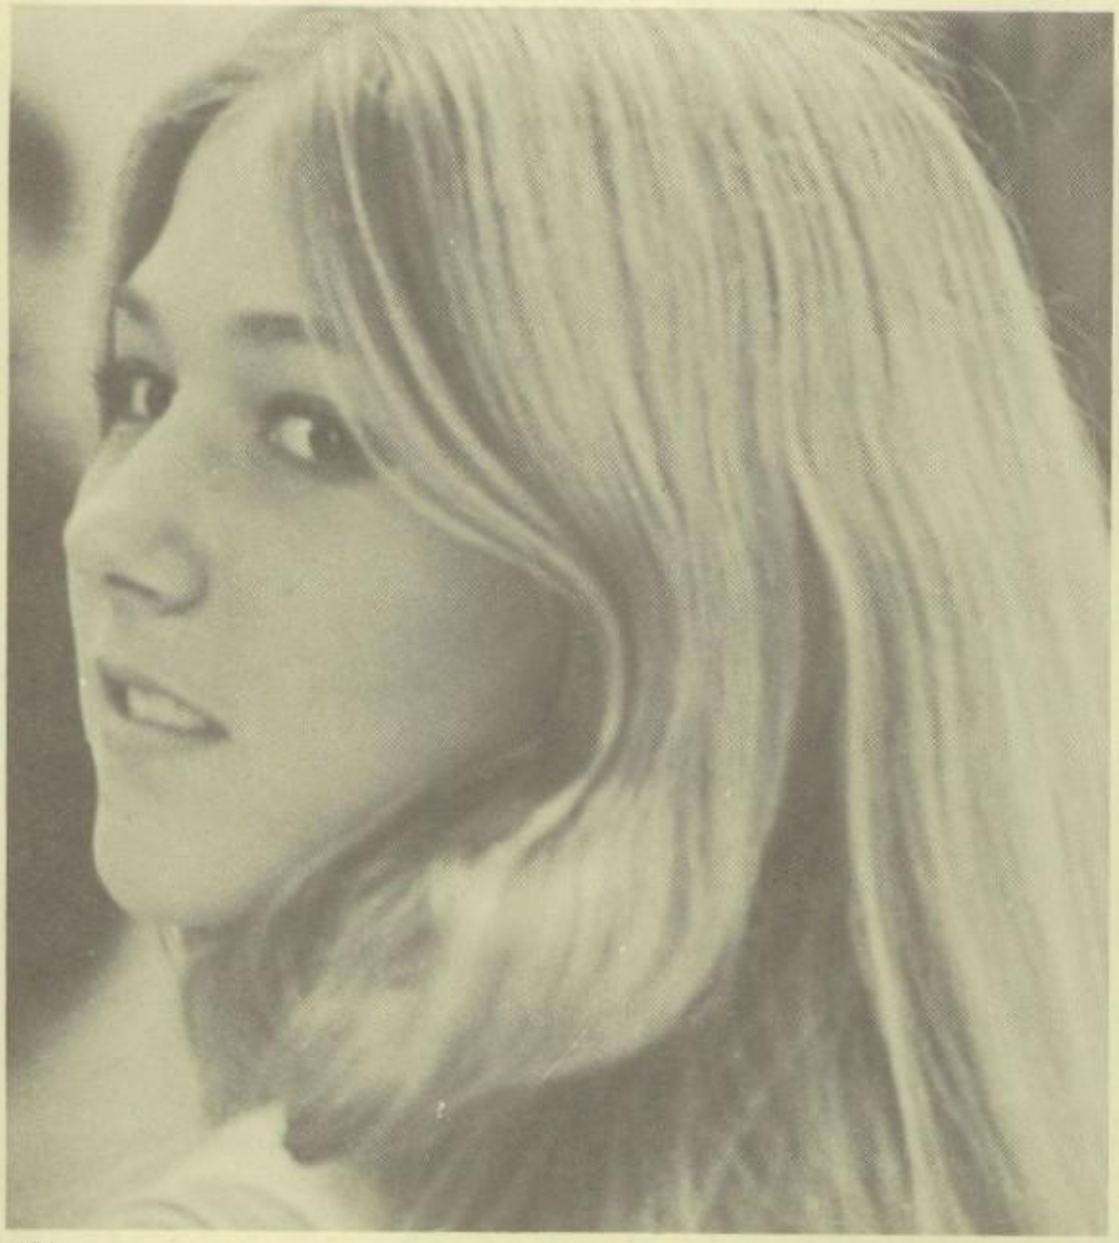
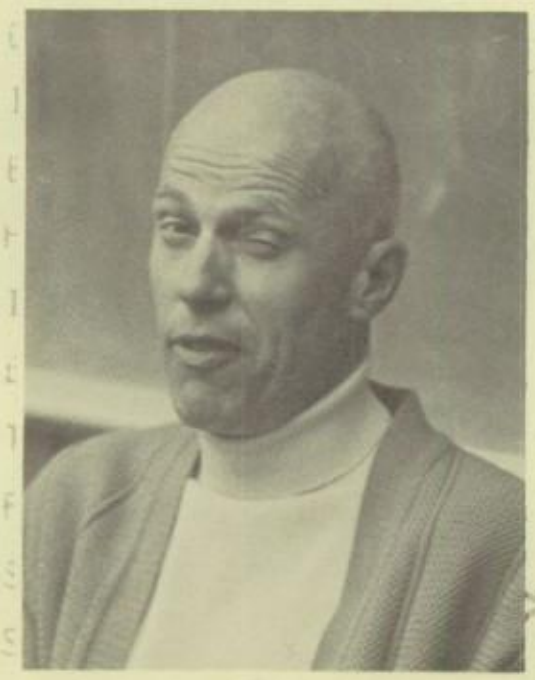
RULES







Cheryl,
I am sure am a Lucky person to have meet you. YOUr really Good at art. V. II Better be in some of your classes next year or I will have a [redacted] ?!
I hope I'll see you During the summer sometime.
Love Ya Lots,
Scott Crandell



P.S
Have a Fantastic Summer
But don't get to drunk.

Teachers: elitist group with an amazing capacity to bore, excite, and even be funny (sometimes intentionally)-you inspired required and made us think while taking center-stage in the classroom (and in our lives) where the show is your own and somehwere behind that dogmatic title (rumor has it) are real live human beings: you've got excuses papers grades and people who are your instruments in your work... hiding in the faculty lounge you are safe secure among you own (what do you really do in there?) come back to class repeat the lesson change the names keep the jokes (if they worked first period) do your job turn out product quiet noisy ones join the fun give lecture read papers (zzz) go home get up for school (hasn't really changed has it?) but you have--yes, it was your approval that really did matter... teacher/pupil syndrome-sometimes wasn't easy to convey... but it was there and you should know it--you do your work--we go on to another year and some of us even care (about you) forgetting for the moment our so-sophisticated cynicism--thanks, teach and it would be nice to see you around... but regardless of what anyone thinks you definitely qualify as erudite because they'd have to pay me to get me to come back to school too...

We've Got to Make a Plan You Banking Easier

Bank of America
Prospect Road
Branch #800

The College Plan®

What we've got is a very special package of services designed specifically for college students. It's simple, convenient, economical and includes everything you're likely to need. We call it the College Plan.

The College Plan Checking Account. This part of our plan gives you completely unlimited check writing for just $1 a month. With no service charge at all for June, July, August, or for any month a balance of $300 or more is maintained. You get monthly statements. And the account stays open through the summer even with a zero balance, saving you the trouble of having to close it in June and reopen it in the fall.

Personalized College Plan Checks. You get these at a very low cost. Scenic or other style checks for a little more.

BankAmericard.® Next, if you're a qualified student of sophomore standing or higher, your College Plan can also include BankAmericard. Use it to charge tuition at state universities, as well as for check cashing identification and all types of purchases. Parent guarantee is not required. And conservative credit limits help you start building a good credit history.

Overdraft Protection. This part of the package, which we call Instant Cash, helps you avoid bounced checks, by covering all your checks up to a prearranged limit.

Educational Loans. Complete details about Studyplan® and Federally Insured loans are available from any of our Student Loan Offices.

Savings Accounts. You get several plans to choose from, all providing easy ways to save up for holidays and vacations.

Student Representatives. Finally, through our Student Representatives, the College Plan offers you individual help with your banking problems. Usually students or recent graduates themselves, our Reps are located at all our major college offices, understand student problems, and are easy to talk with.

Now that you know what's included, why not drop by one of our college offices, meet your Student Rep, and get in on our College Plan. It'll make your banking a lot easier.

Depend on us. More California college students do.

Dear Miss Cheryl-

I'm not a good speller, so please excuse the mistakes.

Although I've not had a chance to really know you, I feel that you have wanted for me to. I mean: sometimes, in Sci-Fi class, I'll be reading my and I'll look up and see you looking at me. I found this very interesting. I guess it's just the distance between us that's preempted our getting to know each other. I'm sure If I was sitting over there or vice versa, we'd be ~~good~~ good friends by now. So....

this summer (July 30th) but I will be going to summer school, if you are too, I'll see you there and maybe I can get to know better there. If not, well, ?

If you'd like to write to me for any absurd reason, I don't know my address yet, so you'll have to give me yours. When you read this, and you want me to have your address, call me at 257-2189 (after 12 noon.)

OKAY! Well, have a great summer and I'll see you in September.

Love, Cathy

Every year fades away and loses itself in the monotony of the present—where shall I go now, who shall I follow, who shall I lead, who shall I criticize, who shall I praise? What do I want from life or what will I give—that's the essence of it all—forfeiting my own desires for yours, for in the giving I'll receive your love, appreciation, happiness, and thus create a bond of

In appreciation of our (and yours) photographer, Garth, whose many hours and efforts made this book possible.

friendship which will surpass all grades goals and grandeur . .
If, in between the chaos of "school", I was enlightened by some seemingly insignificant morsel of knowledge ideas or actions, then I can say it was worth the struggle... Why? Perhaps because I have watched you and your friends and seen the indescribable joy you shared over a mutual understanding, or because the smell of fresh ink reminded me that man is an advanced creature who thinks and seeks for answers, or because I not only heard, but listened to your words of wisdom and concern . . I studied you and found me, experienced truth and found that you are special and so am I—free to be me with the hope of becoming what I was intended to be.

Cheryl,
Haven't we just had so much fun in Lit and P.E. I'm glad I met you, Your a very nice person. At least I'll still your next year. Have a fun summer.

Love and Friendship
Suzy CARR

The end is upon us yet the memories are vivid -- few of the relationships will continue and what has passed cannot be corrected or improved except through the imagination. The words spoken, the emotions felt were real as a part of our growth as individual persons. What can I keep and hold on to? The precious friendships, a memory, a sentiment but isn't it always like this? I don't know what to write in your yearbook - I can't put my impulses into words and a cute cliché is empty unless it's what I really feel. Summer's appealing yet when will I see you again? To those teachers who may seldom hear the gratitude of the student who gained a new outlook of the world and himself through your enlightenment - Thanks.... Get up, eat Cheerios, go to school, don't know names of people in first period because I'm not awake enough to write my own, but I do recognize your face when I pass you at lunch -- gaze at a blackboard and become instrument of teacher's hypnotic lecture, close books, bell rings, bodies move -- the unnamed familiar faces I pass every day between classes are only illusions and reminders of what took place in this institution of mental and social development. As I reflect upon the people the sights the experiences of the past year, I realize how short life really is .... four years of registration, new acquaintances, tests, games, vacations, concerts, dances, final schedules, admits, assemblies, discussions, late nights, heart-breaks, fashions, victories, and whatever filled your twenty-four hours, can't be summed up in a paragraph (Sorry Mrs. B.) because we are incapable of expressing such complex thoughts (conscious or unconscious). Ideas can change with the overturning of time, and I've come to acknowledge that life is more than what one sees on the outside for the inside is where the self lives so let's shed the façades and find out who you are and who I am. J.A., thanks for the encouragement and for leading me to the Truth of life. This book couldn't have happened without Garth and it's people like you who help the rest of us believing in human kindness. Staff, thanks for the moral support .... maybe I'll run into each other on the freeway sometime. The quality of the human will has been impressed upon me beyond description by my friend and advisor, who I'll remember to call on if I ever reconsider her once-in-a-life-time offer (hi, Drake). There are too many of you who deserve recognition, yet you have to know that you're each a very important contributor to the philosophies and perceptions of this writer -- my comprehensions of my existence is complete and I hope that all of you may someday reach such fulfillment. Independence is, in essence, being free to discover one's identity, purpose and motivations. I can either be content with existing or try to find my individuality in a conforming world .... all the same it's still me - free to make my own choice and no one can squelch that freedom. Although I hesitate to admit it.... I learned more than what was required. I learned how to help, to care, to love, to give-in when I was wrong and how to say good-bye to those who I'll most likely never see again....

Take care and God bless

Cheryl, Since we've had so much fun this year and since I'm glad to know that you live down the street from me. It was fun working on the Summer Yearbook. You are a real asset to the staff. We can get together during the summer. I hope to see you next year as well as during the summer. Trust me. Come down to my house 1165 or call 257-5921 at any time.

Love always

Cheryl-

I'm so glad we became best friends. You are so nice to me. Taking me to your house for lunch, giving me earings, doing things for me etc... When we get together we are constantly giggling. I laugh so hard, its embarassing. I don't know why you want to go with Curt he is going with someone else. Me and you always do the same things at the same times. we both like the same clothes, jewelry. Guys and we both liked Guys at the same time. You with Curt and me with Pat. Well, I really don't know what to say except that I love you a lot and I wish that we can remain friends for a long, long time. Love ya always

Lori

P.S. I cant wait until Saturday night! who knows you might get together with Curt!

To Be continued
I guess

Cheryl -
Even though I thanked you numerous times during our meeting for your wonderful present - I would like to do so again.
